TTLER

BEFORE WE BEGIN . . .

We, the Yearbook Staff of the Fiftieth Graduating Class, endeavor to recreate the happy and profitable days that were spent during our High School years. After leaving High School, we shall casually recall these days, and may then refer to this Annual to revivify dim memories into realistic scenes. That these recollections may be referred to throughout our entire lives, we bind them together in this volume, THE 1940 TATTLER.

FRIENDSHIP . . .

Every Annual has a set theme upon which is based the type of pictures, style of writing, and manner of presentation. In this, the Eighteenth Edition of THE TATTLER, in order to set forth the theme of friendship, we shall strive to disclose, both pictorially and editorially, the friendships developed through classes, athletics, and extra-curricular activities. To do this we have divided the Annual into three books.

FRIENDLY ADVICE

Tramping feet and the endless chattering of hundreds of students have long ceased—silenced by the dismissal bell. Only faint echoes remain to represent it at the meetings of the board of education.

On the first Thursday of every month, these seven citizens, chosen by the people of Emmaus to supervise the education of their children, assemble to devote themselves to the important duty entrusted to them.

Subject to state regulations, the duties of the board of education are definitely outlined by a set of bylaws. Collectively,

Claude H. Keller

these duties concern the supervision of all school activities, finances, buildings grounds, supplies, and curriculum.

At the sessions of the school board, vacancies are filled, resignations are accepted, taxes are levied, appropriations granted, and provisions are made for the purchase of books and supplies. Any addition to the curriculum must meet the approval of this group. Through its efforts, also, commendable school repairs and improvements have been made possible. In this way the path of knowledge is made smoother and more accessible to the younger generation of our community.

After four years in the realm of theory together with some advice and guidance from parents, teachers, and friends, the practical world of reality must now be faced.

with brains, courage, ambition, and a willingness for hard work.

If you have evaded certain duties and responsibilities while in school, in the battle of life.

Continue your education. If you graduate today and stop learning tomorrow, you will be uneducated the following day.

HOWARD J. YEAGER

Although we were not very often in personal contact with our superintendent, we constantly felt his presence in the well organized system under his supervision.

ADMINISTRATORS

Allen F. Heller

Principal

You, seniors, have come to the end of a trail that has led to an elevation from which you may see the world and its people. You are about to enter the highway of life. The road is worn smooth; its sides are littered by the victims of the pitfalls and failures encountered along the way. It is also marked by the monuments of those who have overcome hardships and through their achievements have reached success.

The future is unknown; there is no rainbow of promise on the horizon; but, this fact should be a challenge and an opportunity to prove your worth. You must go forth as pioneers, seeking new frontiers of activity and opening new avenues to accomplishment and success.

ALLEN F. HELLER

We brought our intimate and individual difficulties to Principal Heller and received helpful and friendly advice. He shall be remembered for his just disciplinary measures.

As we, the class of Nineteen Hundred and Forty, leave Emmaus High School to go forth and take our place in the world, or to further our schooling in a college or university, it is fitting that we bid farewell to the people, who have played such a great part in our high school training—Our Faculty. But in saying good-by, we do not wish to bid farewell as one does on a permanent separation, but as one does on a short departure; for whether we go to college, or out into the world, we shall have it with us indirectly. These people are a part of the instruction that we received and shall strive to put into practice.

For four years the faculty has patiently taught us, and if we have not benefited by that instruction, it is not its fault, but our own.

But before we leave, let us have one final roll call of these teachers with whom we had so many personal contacts, and try to place them in their proper setting in which we saw them so often and of which we ourselves were a part.

Reaching the head of the end of the hall and not knowing where to start, we go down a side hall, from which issues a most savory odor. Opening the door at the end of this hall, we burst in upon Miss McLean, instructing a group of girls in the art of cooking—a branch of Home Economics. Miss McLean also supervises the cafeteria.

Leaving the aroma of cooking behind us, we enter Miss Cook's room at the head of that hall. Besides teaching Health and Physical Education she is the girl's athletic teams manager, leading the hall to room and through the open door, Mr. DeWitt is instructing an American History Class. In addition he teaches Algebra and Problems of Democracy, advises the Monitor and the Athletic known as Hydrogen Sulfide. Mr. Becker teaches Chemistry, Physics, Biology, and Science. We leave abruptly and head for the stairs. Upon reaching them, we pause; to the right, we hear music. Opening the door, we look in upon the balcony and see Mr. Peters, who conducts Music and Guidance Classes. Mr. Peters is director of the glee clubs, chorus, high school orchestra, the annual High School operetta, and sponsor of the Student Council.

As we descend the stairs to the first floor, we hear a steady clicking sound and the jingling of small bells. Upon investigation we find the typing room, crowded to capacity, under the supervision of Miss Strauss. Miss Strauss also teaches Shorthand. With the noise of typewriters in the background, we turn the hall and enter room five, where we hear Miss Hauser discussing bookkeeping. On the blackboard she has written the words debits and credits are mentioned. Miss Hauser also teaches Shorthand and Bookkeeping. With the words accruals and liabilities, we enter the ad-room where a Latin Class is in progress. Mr. Orit is the Magister, teaching Latin and Civics.

Returning to the hall, we perambulate to room three and see Mr. Benfield at his desk, checking English projects handed to him by the students in his classes. Mr. Benfield teaches English and German, coaches the debating team, and is copy adviser of the school paper.

To the right of the main entrance, we enter the art room under the supervision of Mr. Walbert. A person could spend an hour in this room, admiring the students' realistic paintings and drawings which decorate the walls; but we must leave and continue our roll call. At the end of the hall Mr. Geismaier teaches Algebra in room one and, directly opposite, Miss Busher teaches English and French.

Branching off from the main hall, we pass along a side corridor and enter room eight. Here Mr. Bowers conducts his Biology and Science classes. We leave quickly to prevent interrupting him in his demonstration of an experiment to his class. At the end of this side corridor, Principal Heller's office is located. Mr. Heller divides his time in taking care of his duties as principal and teaching Plane and Solid Geometry, Algebra, and Trigonometry.

Going to the basement on the last leg of our journey, we enter the Industrial Arts Department under the supervision of Mr. Schrader, who teaches Woodwork, Electricity, and Architectural and Mechanical Drawing. He is also Faculty Manager of Athletics.

To the right of the shop, Ulrich Hartman, can be found. Mr. Hartman, besides his coaching duties, teaches Health and Physical Education.

Aside from classroom instruction, students need assistance in library work, instrumental work, and medical attention. So we wish to recognize Miss Gery as librarian; Mr. Jagnesak as instructor of pupils interested in learning to play musical instruments, and as band director; and Dr. Kratzer as our periodical health examiner.

Upon the shoulders of Miss Albright falls the school's routine responsibility. As secretary to Mr. Yeager, Superintendent, we find her keeping school records.

SENIOR CLASS ADVISERS

The class of Nineteen Hundred and Forty, extend our most sincere thanks and appreciation to our class advisers for supervising the class throughout our four years in high school. Also, we thank them for the great effort they have put forth in making these years happy and profitable.

To expedite the work of our senior year and to designate more definitely the functions of the class advisers, certain responsibilities were assumed by each. We take this opportunity to pay tribute and to express our sincere appreciation to Mr. Frantz for the time and effort given the staff in publishing this yearbook and in making it a great success. To Miss Hauser for her guidance, advice, and help, which was extended in supervising the class meetings and finances, we express our heartfelt gratitude and unfeigned thanks. We applaud Mr. Walbert, and truly appreciate his service and good-will which was always unselfishly proffered in superintending the class plays and dances.

To all, we pay our highest regards and respect for the sincere, unselfish leadership and devotion they have given the class of Nineteen Hundred and Forty.

THE CLASS OF 1940

In 1937, one hundred sixty-six students assembled in the high school auditorium as "corny" freshmen. We were finally divided into four sections, and thus our high school career was launched. Many became active in extra-curricular work. Our only social function of the year was a swimming party held at Pine Tree Park.

Vacation time passed quickly, and with the first summons of return, one hundred twenty-three "sophs" responded. We were allotted two social functions, a Hallow'een Party and our first dance, the "Rainbow Hop." More students took part in extra-curricular activities. We were soon planning our summer vacations, and presto, we had completed our second year of high school.

Returning as juniors, we found that our ranks again were depleted to one hundred fourteen. We successfully held the greatest function of the year—the Junior Prom. A large crowd was entertained and everyone declared it our best event. We also sponsored a Christmas Dance; and, as a farewell to the class of '39, we gave a dance in their honor. We were now nearing the end of our third year, not lacking athletic, dramatic, and operatic stars.

We reached our first important goal when we became seniors, one hundred and seven in number. From the start, the year promised to be successful. We managed the school paper, were active in athletics, and dramatics, presenting two highly successful class plays. For the third successive year we participated in the annual operetta—the cast of "Hollywood Extra" being comprised mainly of seniors. We reached a social climax by sponsoring three dances, Hallow'een, Christmas, and Valentine. We soon wrote "finis" to our memorable high school days, with a record of which we can be truly proud.

ATHLETICS

The annual football banquet was held in the basement of St. John's Reformed Church. Captain Philip Weida received the Mary Deischer trophy as the team's most valuable player, and James Wetherhold was awarded the Booster Game football as the best player in that game. The Dr. Lichtenwalner trophy, presented to the most improved player, will be shared by Richard Lichtenwalner and Wilmer Brey.

Twelve members of this powerful squad leave through graduation. They are: Captain Philip Weida, James Wetherhold, Thomas Kline, E. den Bortz, Wilmer Brey, Charles E. kins, Richard Lichtenwalner, Harold Wilson, Charles Kline, Albert Seibert, Henry Kuehl, and John Gehman.

Coach Hartman, Captain J. Wetherhold

A game which displayed the best teamwork of which the lads were capable, was shown when Lehighton was handed an inhospitable 61-32 beating. In the remaining league games, three reverses were suffered at the hands of Northampton, Stroudsburg (forced into an over-time duel to win 33-31), and Whitehall.

In post-season contests, the Hartman coached lads defeated the Lehigh Alumni 37-16, jolted Columbia 39-31, trounced Moravian Prep 33-18, and in their final game for the season, defeated the Alumni, 44-23, to wind up a successful season.

Basketball

Lady Luck failed to smile on the girls basketball team this year, and therefore reverses were suffered. Of the games played, only four resulted in wins; two were ties; and nine were defeats. Official ruling permits no overtime periods for girls; therefore the team

The team opened their season favorably by jolting Moravian Prep, but before Q. ertown in a closely tested battle, 21-16. After tying the Alumni they defeated Fleetwood and Cooper.

Continuing their schedule, the team failed to dent the victory column when they met Moravian Prep of the season. In this game the team established a record by administering a shut out to the visitors, 27-0.

Graduating are: Captain Geraldine Hamscher, Helen Kocis, Pearl Miklencic, Olga Nickels, Betty Bruder, Irene Durback, Rhea Derr, Blanche Meitzler, and Mary Bittenbender.

Baseball

At the time of the writing of this article, the baseball team has played only two games of the 1940 schedule. These games resulted in a 10-3 victory over Central Catholic, and a 7-1 drubbing by Allentown.

From a squad of fifty candidates who responded to Coach Hartman's call, twenty men were selected to represent Emmaus. Of these, ten were members of last year's team. With strong league competition anticipated, it is impossible to predict the outcome of the squad, but it is certain the boys will exhibit a brand of ball worth while witnessing.

Leaving through graduation are: Captain Edward Knerr, Jim McManis, Thomas Wieder, Robert Stephen, John Knerr, and Wilmer Brey.

Track

With several veterans returning and a large group of promising candidates hopes are high for a successful track season. The trackmen have a tough schedule to complete, with possibilities of annexing several trophies for their Alma Mater. Lack of practices, because of inclement weather conditions, greatly handicapped the boys early in the season. Through the inspiration of school records and their own will power, these

Cheerleading Squad

Playing an essential part at all major athletic contests, we found a squad of six girls leading enthusiastic fans. It was not their duty to directly participate in the games but, indirectly, to develop enthusiasm among the fans and to inspire their team on to victory.

The squad, attired in Green and Gold uniforms with megaphones to match, consisted of: seniors—Emily Fellman, Joyce Leibert, Ardella Sallade, and Sadie Iobst, assistant; juniors—Ruth Bernhard, Caroline Chihul, and Faye Feather.

In acknowledgment of their services, each senior is awarded on Letter Day a six-inch chenille letter.

"Aunt Susie Shoots The Works," a mystery farce in three acts, was pre-the play were well rewarded because the audience practically rolled with laughter.

The play unfolds in this manner: Aunt Susie Stowe lives entirely alone. She is eccentric and a spinster. One day she learns that her former school mate, Cora King, has willed Susie her property providing she marries Omar but at the end of the play she and Omar Graves decide to be married.

"Oh, Promise Me"

Then, when the girl had gone, Mr. Barry turned to Mr. H. "The whole thing is a very simple one," he said. "We'll just let the girl know that we're not interested in her any more, and she'll go on her way. While trying to prove to a girl, whom he no longer loves, that he's still in love with her, Mr. Barry is being walked in and — poor Barry."

After more trouble and hilarious comedy Barry gets rid of his girl friends and finds the girl of his dreams.

Art Metal Club

Every Friday in the afternoon we had a session in the Art Metal Club. The members, who had been in the club for some time, had made a number of articles. These articles were made of pewter, copper, brass, silver, or aluminum and, after they had been made, they were polished to a nice finish.

Possibly the most popular projects were copper book ends and letter boxes. The continuous activity provided much interest among the members.

Boys' Glee Club

A group of boys who met for one hour rehearsals comprised this year's B. Glee Club. They took part in several assembly programs, in the operetta "Hollywood Extra", and in the music concert held on May 10.

At a Rotary meeting held last fall at the Broad Street Hotel, these boys pleased a large group of attendants with their singing. The club has participated in other activities during the year, and although it is rather small in size, it has done wonderful work.

Debating

The six seniors who were members of the team debated the question: "Should the government build more highways?"

The highlights of the season were the annual triangular debate and a debate which was held at Slatington.

In the triangular debate, the affirmative met Slatington, and the negative met Catasauqua. Both teams were defeated.

It was the first time that Emmaus High School was represented in the debate teams from Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Hi-Y Club

The Hi-Y Club, a nationally established subsidiary of the Young Men's Christian Association, offers to Senior high school boys a program of instruction and group discussion on the problems of the older boy.

The club is pledged to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character, and has for its purpose the highest development of body, mind, and spirit.

Highly appreciated speakers were regular guests at the semi monthly meetings and, in addition to various club activities, the members conducted devotional exercises in Assembly on designated occasions.

Sew-So Club

The members of the Sew-So Club combined work and pleasure. Some of the projects completed during the year were: a quilt for the hospital, a tablecloth for the church, and a number of other useful articles. The club also held a social gathering at the home of one of its members.

Tatting Club

Aspirations of yesteryear bid students assemble for tatting and similar handcraft. The dip of the shuttle fascinated a score or more, but not many meetings passed by before knots played havoc with good intentions. Dreams of completing hand-made laces vanished before spring arrived. Knitting, crocheting, embroidery, and even handwriting stole the show.

Planning for the Valentine party was almost as much fun as the Valentine box, the games, and the refreshments.

Typing Club

The Typing Club was organized in September for the benefit of the students who desired to improve their typing. The club members have attained their personal goals in most cases. This, of course, was due to their willingness to become better typists.

Making designs, typing of speed tests, and notebook projects were some of the opportunities derived from the club.

Astronomy Club

The Astronomy Club, consisting of fifteen members, was organized for the purpose of studying the solar system and stellar movements.

Articles on astronomy were brought in by each of the members of the club, followed by a rather comprehensive discussion and later arranged into a scrapbook.

Many members have made charts depicting the various solar phenomena, and also many star planispheres for projecting on the previously constructed screen. With the aid of the charts and slides, the group has made extensive study of the constellations. The Astronomy Club is under the direction of Mr. Bowers.

Checker Club

Junior and Senior High School students who desired to relax for forty-five minutes gathered in Mr. Gensinger's room to play checkers, Chinese checkers, and similar games. All players chose their own opponents and the 'heat' of the games retained a calmness which evidences fine character in the realm of play.

The year started with an enrollment of fifty active members.

Hobby Club

The Hobby Club was formed for the purpose of utilizing a large number of pupils in working at their hobbies.

The members of the club have many different hobbies. Some of these are playing checkers, collecting all kinds of cigar bands, match cases, stamps, movie stars and sports pictures. Others are assiduous collectors of the various makes of automobiles and airplanes. The remainder of the members read, study, or have nascent ideas for inventions. Mr. Ott is the sponsor of the Hobby Club.

Boy Scout Club

The Boy Scout Club, planned for boys who are unable to attend school as well as for those who take an interest in outdoor activities is open to boys Mr. Heller and is under the direction of Scout Walter Wagner and Star Scout Mark Kleppinger.

The activities of the child are varied in order to give the child a chance in which the boy may be interested. New hobbies and interests are encouraged.

Pennsylvania German Club

To foster love for the Pennsylvania German dialect, nature and history is our aim. To this end the members will cooperate to read, study and carry out representative work, find out the dialect and its history. Especially through Dutch English called by Professor F. A. Rader : M. H. Rader College.

Some of the literary pieces expected were "Der Bann", by Hermann
Der Rowwer, "Simmerst du", by Wilhelm Kuhn, "Der Bann", by Zeller, "Der Bann", and "Der Bann", by Hermann Kuhn.

The club investigated the reasons for the situation in Germany and the within and between clubs and the national level.

Since the 1940s, the club has been a part of the program. The club has been a part of the program since it was started. Mr. A. J. Benfield was the sponsor of this club.
